

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5

10 A container designing system comprises a parametric inputting means for inputting a parametrically defined shape condition, a storing means for storing a shape condition, a solid model defining means for defining a three-dimensional outer shape of a hollow container as a solid model filled up with contents on the basis of the shape condition, and a solid model editing means for subjecting the solid model to a secondary processing.